For Law Firms

Investigative support aligned with legal strategy

Pre-litigation: clarify facts, identify parties, build chronologies and assess evidentiary gaps.

Active disputes: develop leads, verify assertions and organize intelligence around the legal issues that matter.

Enforcement and recovery: support lawful asset, identity and relationship research.

For Insurance Companies

Evidence that supports fair, defensible claim decisions

We support claim verification, background and circumstance checks, chronology review, identity links, digital traces, relationship mapping and investigation of inconsistencies requiring further enquiry.

Reports distinguish verified information, analytical inference and unresolved questions so claim professionals can see exactly what the evidence supports.

For Private Clients

Discreet investigative support for personal and sensitive matters

NSK Intelligence Group works directly with private individuals who need reliable information, documented evidence or specialist investigative support in matters where there is a legitimate and lawful purpose.

Identity & Background Verification

Verification of identities, backgrounds, aliases, relevant public records and inconsistencies where a legitimate interest exists.

Locating People & Relationship Research

Lawful enquiries to locate individuals or clarify relevant personal, professional or financial connections.

Fraud, Deception & Asset-Related Enquiries

Fact development and documented research concerning suspected fraud, deception, assets or financial relationships within applicable legal limits.

Digital Footprint & Online Investigations

OSINT, online identity research, impersonation, digital exposure, cyber-enabled deception and preservation of relevant online evidence.

Evidence for Legal Matters

Collection, organization and preservation of factual or digital material that may assist the client and, where appropriate, their legal counsel.

Every private-client matter is handled with discretion, proportionality and respect for privacy, applicable law and professional boundaries.

Methodology

A disciplined path from question to conclusion

01 DEFINE	Objective, legitimate purpose, legal basis and decision context.
02 PLAN	Sources, methods, risks, proportionality and investigative priorities.
03 COLLECT	Lawful open-source, documentary, digital and human-source information.
04 VERIFY	Corroboration, consistency, source quality and evidentiary reliability.
05 ANALYZE	Patterns, gaps, alternative explanations and implications.
06 REPORT	Clear findings, limitations and recommended next steps.

Professional Reporting

Material findings are linked to their supporting sources, dates and evidentiary context. Verified findings are distinguished from source statements, analytical interpretation and unresolved issues. Reports prioritize the questions the client must answer, rather than the volume of information collected.

International Capability

Cross-border perspective. Local discipline.

NSK Intelligence Group is positioned to support matters involving multiple jurisdictions, languages, digital ecosystems and cultural contexts, with particular focus on Denmark, the United Kingdom, Spain and broader European matters.

Services are available in English and Spanish.

Technology & Analytics

Technology supports judgment - it does not replace it.

OSINT: structured collection from lawful open sources.

Link analysis: people, entities, assets and relationships.

Digital evidence: capture, preservation and traceability.

Forensic thinking: source quality, integrity and reproducibility.

Representative Engagement Scenarios

Illustrative engagement types - not client case claims

Insurance fraud: an insurer needs to verify identities, chronology and digital connections surrounding a suspicious loss.

Commercial dispute: counsel needs a structured map of parties, corporate links, adverse information and evidentiary gaps.

Executive due diligence: a company requires an independent assessment of reputation, affiliations and hidden risk signals.

Private-client digital matter: an individual needs identity research, digital-footprint analysis or preservation of online evidence concerning impersonation, deception or another lawful personal matter.
